Today, science, technology and the manufacturing sector are developing rapidly with the development of the quality of education in all educational institutions requires promotion. This is what happens to the youth serves to increase its effectiveness. The moral character of teachers working in our country is serious requirements, based on the above opinion, regarding mental abilities and professional skills is placed. The focus is on the education and upbringing of the younger generation, who are the masters of our future attention will definitely pay off one day. Especially at school age. High attention is paid to the education of students and the talent of our children identify their talents at an early stage and guide them to study in educational fields based on this special attention is paid. Therefore, "Education of independent thinking, correct and honest, courageous generation is one of the pressing problems of our time." Indeed, the 21st century is intellectual, independent. This is the age that raises young people with a healthy spirit. Therefore, in order for children to gain deep knowledge and deep thinking, first of all,

The skills, knowledge and abilities of a teacher have important specifics. Today a specialist who considers himself a teacher, of course, is responsible for raising children. Should be given serious attention. Our main goal is to teach students to think independently is to attract creativity. After all, today the employer is also independent a thinker who can easily apply acquired knowledge when solving problems, critical from hiring an employee who is capable of reasoning, has a rich language reserve and is literate and interested. From this point of view, this is the most important thing in the work of a teacher - to teach students to learn. What students should learn and there are an infinite number of them - the main thing is that they must learn not to shy away from work, to work consciously, effectively, creatively and responsibly. Teachers today here is the requirement that is put before them: to regularly improve the educational process on the go, teaching, training, development and, of course, practical issues of quality and it must be solved comprehensively. Comprehensive support for talented youth, their innate abilities, in the future, focusing on identifying talents and talents from an early age. We will promote the development of great people from our country. To do this, we identify children's talents and abilities in a timely manner and guide them correctly. If we develop it, it will pave the way for new discoveries in the future. We will for this reason, he has a strong moral and logical thinking and a high intellectual culture was Children should receive special education and be given more hope. That's exactly children to solve more important economic, scientific and social problems in the future they can. Talented people are capable of showing the Uzbek generation to the world. Talented, smart, experienced in his field, experienced in his field are experts. Wise, lively, sensible children from among the students of the class. We select them and move them to one field or another profession depending on their abilities and capabilities. We need to guide. Follow guidelines for identifying and working with gifted children good results are achieved when implemented. - Every child is unique. Some of them write poetry, some do mathematics and those who have the same abilities are distinguished by high intelligence. A teacher who educates the younger generation has special pedagogical, psychological and that is a deeply knowledgeable and very virtuous person in his specialty. To this end. Today's modern teacher must have the following qualities. Gifted children are different even if you study with children, communicate with other gifted children opportunity must be created. The program for gifted children is ideal in every way there should be. The sample plan for teaching gifted children is directly related to work must be implemented. Today's teacher fulfills the task assigned to him a rouse children's interest in this activity by attracting their attention must be able to realistically assess the behavior and behavior of children. Many gifted students have many interests. Today's teacher fulfills the task assigned to him to arouse children's interest in this activity, attracting their attention must be able to realistically assess the behavior and behavior of children. He must be able to determine the mental and physical state of children and doing this with children should be taken into account in educational work, which is increasing. Pedagogical skills to analyze its essence, it is enough to know it and be able to apply it in practice depends on the knowledge, experience and creative abilities of the teacher. So today is the day pedagogical skill occupies a special place in the pedagogical activity of a teacher.
